LOCAL COMMUNITIES RECOGNIZED AT ADC CONFERENCE

The Association of Defense Communities honored the Fort Leonard Wood Region at the National Conference for Innovation in Charleston, SC in late February. Mayor Lauritson and Mayor Hardman attended the event and accepted the recognition, along with Dorsey Newcomb and Joe Driskill of the Sustainable Ozarks Partnership. They are pictured with ADC President Mike Cooper.

Waynesville was also recognized for its innovative partnership with Fort Leonard Wood in stray animal care. The City began animal control on post this past fall.

The conference focused on innovative ways to sustain the military in face of budget cuts and downsizing. The SOP group is active in maintaining a proactive posture and being aware of factors that are of interest.

SOP Chairman, Joe

Driskill, has recently accepted the position of Military Advocate for the State of Missouri and will be leaving our area. He will be a valuable connection for work to enhance the military presence in the state. Good luck to Joe!

PULASKI COUNTY FARMER'S MARKET TO HAVE NEW HOME

The Pulaski County Farmer's Market will be moving to a new home at the site of the old Street Department building, near the Roubidoux Spring R-V Park. The market will open May 7th, 8-12 and will feature over 15 regular vendors of locally grown produce and meats. They will be open every Saturday until October.

The new home, sponsored by the City of Waynesville, will afford many opportunities to the Market for expanded events. There are plans for a Craft Day, featuring local crafts and vendors, and also, a stage for music events.

Bruce Main serves as the president of the Market and will lead a vendor meeting at 6:30, April 5th, in the Courthouse basement. All are welcome. SUPPORT FARMER'S MARKETS!
